Neil Gong is an assistant professor in the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering at the Iowa State University. He got a Ph.D. in computer science from the University of California, Berkeley in May 2015, and a B.E. in computer science from the University of Science and Technology of China in 2010.

He is broadly interested in cybersecurity, privacy, and their intersection with data science. In particular, he recently focuses on secure and privacy-preserving social web services, authentication, as well as security and privacy in Internet-of-Things.

His research has been widely covered by popular media such as WIRED, NPR, and Slashdot.
